

Indigenous Peoples Atlas of Canada By birchovervillage.co.uk 322 pages In 2017 Prime Minister Trudeau used his speech at the United Nations to finally acknowledge before the world the disgraceful history of Canada's colonization as one of "humiliation neglect and abuse" and promised to do to help the nation's 1. The authors explain: "Terra nullius a Latin expression meaning "nobody's land" is a principle sometimes used in international law to describe territory that may be acquired by a state's occupation of it. The earliest explorers to North America enacted this principle to claim occupation of the continent in the name of their kings and queens when they considered the original inhabitants inferior to the title of human. " This frame helps put things in a broader context in much the same way that Yuval Harari's Sapiens Homo Deus and 21 Lessons for the 21st Century put things in a broader perspective. It is fair to say that educated Canadians usually know far about injustices in other parts of the world than those that have taken place in "our own" backyard such as the history of residential schools: "Beginning in the 1800s government sponsored religious schools were established to assimilate Indigenous children into Euro Canadian culture. While each of the volumes is excellent they each have a unique structure and content an appropriate editorial decision given the immense differences among the histories and cultures of each of these groups. Julian Brave NoiseCat Natan Obed the organization Indspire and everyone involved in the preparation of these beautiful and highly informative volumes deserve a heartfelt thanks from all Canadians: kinanaskomitin nakummek. Got a great pre release deal! Only disappointment is I was expecting large floor maps but maybe earlier plans were to include and had to be scrapped as it was delayed due to the high interest!! Highly recommend 322 pages The Royal Canadian Geographical Society in partnership with Canada's national Indigenous organizations has created a groundbreaking four volume atlas that shares the experiences perspectives and histories of First Nations Inuit and Métis peoples.
